Question 10 Answer
As a retired Marine Corps officer, combat veteran, and lifelong firearm owner, I understand that the Second Amendment is not about hunting, sport shooting, or recreation alone. It reflects a deeper constitutional principle: that free citizens possess both the right and the responsibility to safeguard their liberty.

The Founders understood that rights do not come from government. They come from God and are secured by the Constitution. The Second Amendment exists because they knew that a free people must never become wholly dependent upon the state for their security. It serves as the ultimate reminder that in America, government is the servant of the people - not the other way around.

An armed and responsible citizenry is one of the many checks and balances woven into our constitutional system. Alongside free elections, an independent judiciary, federalism, and a free press, the Second Amendment helps preserve the balance of power between the governed and those entrusted to govern.
