Question 14 Answer

The Second Amendment is the birthright of a free people. It protects the God-given, individual right of every law-abiding American to keep and bear arms—a right government did not create and has no authority to take away. The Founders wrote “shall not be infringed” because they understood that liberty cannot survive when the people are defenseless and government alone possesses force.

It is not merely about hunting or recreation. It protects our right to defend our lives, our families, our homes, our property, and our freedom. It is the Constitution’s ultimate safeguard against criminals, tyranny, and government overreach.

As a constitutionalist, I will never negotiate away the rights of law-abiding Americans. I will fight to repeal unconstitutional restrictions and oppose every effort that infringes upon our God-given right to keep and bear arms. An armed citizen is not a threat to liberty—an armed citizen is the guardian of liberty.

The Constitution is clear: the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.
